School Nurse Antonio Artero, RN, honored as 2016 Health Care District Employee of the Year

The Health Care District is proud to honor Antonio Artero, RN, School Nurse at South Grade Elementary School in Lake Worth, as its 2016 Employee of the Year.

Antonio was chosen from among 23 Health Care District employees who were nominated for the honor. He received the award at the Health Care District's holiday party on December 16 at the Palm Beach Airport Hilton in West Palm Beach in front of colleagues, family and friends.

“Antonio is a pillar in his school and an exemplary employee,” said Darcy

J. Davis, Chief Executive Officer of the Health Care District of Palm Beach County. “All of the children, teachers and most of the parents know who he is because he lives in the heart of the community and takes every opportunity to improve the health and welfare of those in need.”

Antonio was chosen for his dedication to helping the youngest and most vulnerable members of the community. In his 15 years as a Health Care ^{TOP}

District School Nurse, he has dedicated countless hours of his own time and money helping families with limited means.

“It’s a great recognition,” said Antonio Artero, RN, Health Care District School Nurse at South Grade Elementary School. “It has more value than any monetary award. To me, people should be recognized for what they do. I help people in any way I can, and I have the support of my wife and family. It is very gratifying to be able to help others and gratifying when people thank you for what you did.”

Many families in Antonio’s community have critical needs that they cannot address on their own. In one example, a family came to Antonio with a child that had a crippling condition and was in need of a wheelchair. The family was transporting the youngster in a small umbrella stroller that was clearly too small and not designed for his needs. Antonio searched for a wheelchair that was adequate. When he realized the child could not operate a conventional wheelchair, he connected the family with a local source that helped raise funds to purchase one that was motorized.

“Antonio finds his happiness in the work of helping others and represents the heart of many of the qualified registered nurses serving in the schools of Palm Beach County,” said Michelle Iavarone, RN, School Health Supervisor. “The Health Care District and his school community are the fortunate benefactors of his extraordinary kindness.”

For another family that lacked transportation, Antonio identified resources that enabled them to travel to a specialist to obtain lifesaving medication for their child. He also has accompanied families to their doctors' appointments to serve as an interpreter and as an advocate.

“We couldn’t be more proud to have one of our school nurses selected as the Health Care District Employee of the Year! Antonio has dedicated his career to improving the lives of those less fortunate by teaching them how to be healthier and happier in school and in our community,” said Ginny Keller, RN, MBA, NCSN, Director of the Health Care District’s School Health Program. “His commitment to school nursing reinforces the need for all children to be valued by our society, which reflects what the Health Care District of Palm Beach County is all about.”

“There are many, many other stories about this individual we could share, many acts of kindness and generosity,” said Rick Roche, VP & Chief Administrative Officer, who presented the award to Antonio at the event. “He gives back with a sense of humility that is, in its own respect, humbling and inspiring.”
