HRSA, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, is the primary federal agency for improving health care to people who are geographically isolated, economically or medically vulnerable. To improve the overall quality, efficiency, and value of the health care services provided by the nation’s health centers, and to celebrate their recent achievements in providing care to more than 28 million patients, HRSA provides Quality Improvement Awards (QIA). The QIA support HRSA’s strategic goal to improve access to quality health care and services. These awards recognize the highest performing health centers nationwide and health centers that have made significant quality improvement gains from the previous year.
